Program Note

I wrote Images following a dream I had one night. After waking from this dream, I was left with a rather indistinct image of what had actually taken place, yet the impression that it left on me was so unmistakably vivid, I felt compelled to write this piece based on the elusive memory. The first image communicates the uncontrollable and dizzying sense of motion that occurs in the moments between sleep and lucidity; the second reflects upon a beautiful stillness that is distorted and then transformed back to tranquility; and the third is reminiscent of a wild, late night jam session.

Performance Notes

In addition to intuitive and sensitive musical discretion, I would ask that the pianist consider the following suggestions in regards to use of the damper pedal: The first movement should require very little pedaling unless explicitly marked (as in m. 23-24, 40-43, 67-81). The dance sections (m. 1-22 for example) should be very clear and staccato throughout. In the second movement, although the suggested pedal markings outline important color and harmonic changes that are integral to the direction of the piece, the use of pedal can be much more liberal and colorful. The third movement, like the first, should also use very little damper pedal unless marked. Short, pointillistic music characterizes much of this movement, so clarity and accuracy in the rhythmic interaction between the saxophone and piano along with a very consistent tempo are imperative to making the music flow and groove.

For the saxophonist, the slap tonguing or “smack” sounds in the third movement should always have a defined pitch. Please tend toward a full, accented, punchy tone, rather than a tone that is strictly percussive.

Relentless $\text{d} = \text{ca. } 112$ ($\text{d} = \text{ca. } 152$)

The musical score consists of ten staves of music for Alto Saxophone and Piano. The Alto Saxophone part is on the top staff, and the Piano part is on the bottom staff. The music is in 4/4 time throughout, with various dynamics and time signatures indicated. The piano part features many eighth-note patterns and some sixteenth-note patterns. The alto saxophone part has some eighth-note patterns and some sixteenth-note patterns. The dynamics include f, ff, subito p, and mp. The time signatures change frequently, including 6/8, 8/8, and 16/16. The score is transposed, as indicated by the title.
